THE EFFECTS OF TOBACCO.

SIT BENJAMIN BRODIE, an eminent London physician, was applied to recently to unite in a petition to have a Parliamentary committee raised to inquire into the effects of tobacco upon the human system. He declined, because he did not consider such a committee competent to investigate such a subect; but he has written a letter upon the subject to the London Times, in the course of which he says:

"The effects of this habit are indeed various the difference depending on difference of constitution and the difference in the mode of life otherwise. But, from the few observations which I have been able to make on the subject, I am led to believe that there are few who do not suffer harm from it, to a greater or less extent. The earliest symptoms are manifested in the derangement of the nervous system. A large proportion of habitual smokers are rendered lazy and listless, indisposed to bodily, and incapable of much mental exertion. Others suffer from depression of the spirits, amounting to hypochendriasis, which -moking relieves for a time, though it aggravates the evil afterwards. chased in any market, of the same quality and Occasionally there is a general nervous ex- style. Having made extensive preparations for citability, which, though very much less in the manufacture of goods, we hope to receive the tream tremens of drunkards. I have known many individuals to suffer from severe nervous pains, sometimes in one, sometimes in another part of the body."

The Doctor afterwards adds, in reference low. to the habit of smoking as it prevails at the present time:

"But a still graver question remains to be considered. What will be the result if this habit be continued by future generations? It is but too true that the sins of the fathers children's children. We may here take warning from the Indians of America. An intelligent American physician gives the tion of this remarkable people: One genera- to furnish the the firewater. They have a degenerate and comparatively imbecile progeny, who indulge in the same vicious habit with their parents. Their progeny is still more degenerate, and after a very few generations, the race ceases altogether. We may also take warning from the history of another nation, who some few centuries ago, while the banners of Solvman the Magnificent, were the terrors of Christendom, but who since then, having become more addicted to tobacco smoking than any of the European nations, are now the lazy early, so as to insure promptness when called and lethargic Turks, held in contempt by all civilized communities."
